

Death Threat

The Famine

Bleed through this life filled with sorrow
Rebuild with promise of tomorrow

Burn away this living hell and all that try to stop it

Remains of callous heart and treason
Begin to rise against and conquer
This is a death threat, this is the end for all you know
Lashing against it, overthrowing this world of shadow

Dissolve the hold, cast aside and focus all to fury
Open wound and seeping pores, all is left to bury

Destroy the damaged soul and coward
Receive through self then devour
This is a death threat, this is the end for all you know
Lashing against it, overthrowing this world of shadow

Seasons of this shadow have spoken
Through overcast we'll reach up and choke them

Burn away