

Broken Window

The Flatliners

I am aware that you have a right to your opinion
But that doesn't mean that you can shove it in my face
I've tolerated it for a long time (is key)
When fighting back, winning, losing, I'm still choosing
My position, I am missing lots of things that I will need
When it comes, when it hits me
Hopefully I will be ready

When you talk back to me, it seems like I'm not listening
Truth is truth's been seen to overpower worthless dreams
Take these twice a day and they'll reduce the pain
Broken window and a brick with a note on the window pane

I am aware that you have a right to your thoughts
But that doesn't mean that it's obscene and everybody likes it when you piss them off
And make fun of them right to their face
How would you like it if the pressure was off?
The world's weight on your shoulders was just gone
You'll never see the day come if you're involved