

Train To Nowhere

The Flower Kings

No expressions on their faces in the rain We're ain't going nowhere children, we're just strangers on a train No goodbye, no use sending letters home There's one way to oblivion and that road ain't far from home

You may find it hard to face the evil, do you Son?
You still think a miracle will happen, when you face
the gun

And then we'll fade into the night we hold our precious dreams inside with young hearts open wide Running on the edge of time so won't you hold me one last time
go tell the world about the crime
and let it never happen ever again

A fool beileved his Kingdom would last a thousand years Now the echoes paint a future but tomorrow hold the tears
The World is watching, but then no one have seen the end Running on a train to nowhere that's the bitter truth my friend Will we ever learn so the crosses burn!

You still find it hard to face the evil, do you Son?
You still think a miracle will happen, when you face
the gun

The world will fade into the night will someone remember my name Ride this nightmare to an end
so won't you hold me one last time
go tell the world about the crime
and let it never happen ever again