

Our Last Days

The Fray

Sunset, home town, America
Roads I used to run
These walls used to hold heroes
Black and white, I'm gone

I can show you all the places that we used to go
That ain't there no more
But hold up, dear darling, it's alright
'Cause I am sure

This love will spin now and always
These hearts will burn till our last days

When you're young you just gotta know
What it's all about
Then you're old with your head full of memories
You could do without

It's enough to make you wonder
Can anything last at all
This broken sound
But you may be the one place I'm sure about

This love will spin now and always
These hearts will burn till our last days

Have you had enough?
Have you had enough?

These hearts will burn till our last days
This love will spin now and always

These hearts will burn till our last days