

Pale Traces

The Gathering

When did you lose your smile?
Were you walking all alone at night searching endlessly for a way to join the pieces of what you used to be?
Let me hold you for a moment

When did you lose your smile
Was it all too much to take at once that suddenly you felt you had nothing left?

The coldest winter can't freeze your heart one day you'll see that even the longest winter passes by that through the years I'd still give it all to hold you for a moment

When did your dream fade out?
Did it seem it wasn't worth it at all?
Then I'll try another million ways to make you understand

The coldest winter can't freeze your heart
one day you'll see that I'd give it all to hold you, that even when all hope is gone
I'd still give it all to hold you for a moment

One day you'll see those heavy clouds will soon make way for brighter days

One day you'll see I've been here for you all along and I will never let go of your hand

One day you'll see...