Right Beside You

The Generators

How it began, there I am In the evening twilight A refugee down by the sea Moving along on and on By a lonesome highway And one of these days I'm gonna set me free, I believe!

Weathered and torn I stood in the storm There I's remain, the sorrow I brought And I never thought that I'd come in from the rain You come to terms You live and you learn From all the bad breaks It's you and you In the big bad world facing up to the heart aches

But there I am Right beside you No one else Just you and me In the moment In the flow of traffic It's all getting a bit easier to see
