Caught in My Eye

Though your dark eyes You can feel my Every sin When I walk right Into a straight line This world of yours I got you caught in my eye, again You're the fall guy In the corner Of my gloom It feels like Everything I see Is nothing new I got you caught in my eye, again There's a door there That opens Without you And the door lies With its open keys To my room Flames of the torch light Fill my thighs And I crave fulfill And I consume 'em But I don't give got you caught in my eye, again
