

Requiem

The Getaway Plan

Somewhere along the road to your house,
You took a wrong turn and abandoned yourself.
Sailing solo through the night

You say that you are a child of the world,
But can you build bridges with some other girl?
Do you believe in freedom son?

Do you remember, no matter the weather,
You'd hide out, and dance through the rain in the dark?
Do you still believe in love?

When the journey begun, your heart was sincere.
Now you say that your heart is a burden to bare.
Dragging me with you through the sand.

You say that time will heal all of our wounds.
What I wouldn't give for a day in your shoes.
Do you believe in privilege son?

Do you remember, no matter the weather,
You'd hide out, and dance through the rain in the dark?
Do you still believe in love?
[x2]

Do you still believe?
Do you still believe in...?