

Reap What You Sow

The Great Commission

Who are you to cast the first stone?
And with these stones you build my home.
All you've done you've done in vain,
Be gone from me I do not know your name.
You will reap what you sow.
For every sheep that you've led astray.
You will reap what you sow.
For every act you've done in my name.
The stone rejected by the builders has no become the cornerstone.
The veil that once separated is now torn in shreds.
You've turned your heart from your people.
You've turned your ears from their cries.
You've built your kingdoms but you're not welcome in mine.
What troubles await you hypocrites!
You sons of vipers hypocrites!
As the venom spreads hypocrites!
You chose your side hypocrites!
You will reap what you sow.
You will reap what you sow.
