The Guess Who

Glamour boy
Get your costume on
You got 'em lined up waiting for you
Glamour boy
You got 'em standing in the aisles
So don't hang 'em up
For $25,000 you can look like a woman tonight
For $25,000 I think it'll work out right

I think it'll work out, uh-huh
I think it'll work out
Oh, you never know how to ride it
Think it'll work out

Glamour boy
You've been tops for a while
With a million dollar smile
Glamour boy
You got rave reviews
And you're front page news
For $37,000 you can look like your sister tonight
For $37,000 I think it'll work out right

I think it'll work out, uh-huh
I think it'll work out
Ah, you never know how you'll ride it
Think it'll work out

So spin with the archer, now, and
Laugh in his face as he cocks his bow
Steal from his mistress
As she's makin' love to your family
And be aware
That there's not many there
Who want to take time to sing and play an honest song for the people no more
Come on, take time to sing and play an honest song for the people tonight
Don't you wanna take time to sing and play an honest song for the people tonight

Ladies and gentlemen, a warm, space age welcome if you will for the most phenomenal group of the century, Ricky and the Balloons

Glamour boy
You've really had your fill
And it's all downhill
Glamour boy
You've got tales to tell
When you see your old friends
For $49,000 you can look like a woman tonight
For $49,000 I think it'll work out right

I think it'll work out, uh-huh
I think it'll work out

Think it'll work out

So spin with the archer, now, and

Laugh in his face as he cocks his bow
Steal from his mistress
As she's makin' love to your family
And be aware
That there's not many there
Who want to take time to sing and play an honest song for the people no more
Don't you wanna take time to sing and play an honest song for the people no more
Don't you wanna try and take time to sing and play an honest song for the pe

You can't fool 'em
Take time to sing and play an honest song for the people tonight
They're getting smarter
