

I Know You Are There

The Handsome Family

When the rope of death strangles
And dark waters roar and foam
When fear and trembling hold me
And the slimy grip pulls down

I know you are there

When the pale starlight is fading
And sorrow fills my heart
When dewdrops fall so sweetly
On the green, green grass at dawn

I know you are there
I know you are there
I know you are there

When black fish swim ponds of silver
Where jade water lilies grow
When devils dance around me
And the flames of madness glow

I know you are there

When the softly calling bluebirds
Drift through the lazy clouds
When white owls circle screaming
And gravel fills my mouth

I know you are there
I know you are there
I know you are there
