Pace Yourself

The Higher

you cant write the same song over again its in the same key over again...ya because were doing so good makin up for miles just a little while like you would under estimating you know you think were doin so good im glad to be a part of the glass that you placed upon your withered heart in case and left for danger in a race to the rode on the way to apathy its lifes little let down spontaneity you cant write the same song over again its in the same key over again ya because were doin so good makin up for miles just a little while like you would under estimating you know you think were doin so good im glad to be a part of the glass that you placed upon your withered heart in case and left for danger in a race to the rode on the way to apathy its lifes little let down spontaneity