

Who Said Anything (About Falling In Love)?

The Hoosiers

I don't know why you love me like you do.
It's not like I'm special, special like you.
Open your eyes,
she's just been reading lines.
But she's ever so convincing,
want to believe her this time.

Who said anything about falling in love?
Lost my mind when I surrendered everything to find you're enough.
This is my mistake,
'Cause who said anything about falling in love?
In love, in love?

Someone like you was made to be enjoyed.
But it won't be by me and that leaves me terrified.
I'm coming to terms;
I know it didn't mean a thing to you,
didn't mean a thing,
but it meant quite a lot to me.
Meant too much, I can see.

Who said anything about falling in love?
Lost my mind when I surrendered everything to find you're enough.
This is my mistake,
'Cause who said anything about falling in love?
In love, in love?

I know, I know that you're just being kind,
but it's giving me a false hope.
I know, I know that I only need a little,
just a little bit of false hope.
I know, I know that I'm only seeing what I want, I want.

Who said anything about falling in love?
Lost my mind when I surrendered everything to find you're enough.
This is my mistake,
'Cause who said anything about falling in love?
Lost my mind when I surrendered everything to find you're enough.
This is my mistake,
'Cause who said anything about falling in love?
Lost my mind when I surrendered everything to find you're enough.
This is my mistake,
Who said anything about falling in love?
This is my mistake,
Who said anything about falling in love?
