Questions

The Jelly Jam

fell asleep on a sleepless night steady breathing filled with colored light uneasy question, neither wrong or right it often works that way black and white lost in the color gray it often works that way the many reasons fill me up with many more questions questions the winter comes, spring is next summer comes, why do we seem perplexed we want so much for something else to be next it often works that way black and white found in the color gray it often works that way the many reasons fill me up with many more questions questions
