

Letting Love Go

The Jokerr

[Masetti:]

When will, we ever learn
I've had moments of worry and countless hours of stress
I keep thinking about you not knowing what's coming next
If you keep me inside of your prayers than I'll understand
But know, you are, the one for me and now I fail to see how hard it is Falling in love, and letting love go

All and all I'm standing tall but if I fall away, if I fall away
Will you remember times we shared or just the lonely nights
We took the world by storm but it's a lonely life
And I feel I'm lost in a path that I'm meant to lead
Bodies come and they go what is mentally so hard, to say goodbye

[Chorus:]

Falling in love, letting love go
Am I just a memory a footprint in the snow
Or am I something bigger than I thought would ever grow
A fantasy illusion of something we'll never know

Or maybe love is, something to be gained
I know where I am going, directly to the pain
Cause even though it hurts, it's making me a man
And no one said it's easy or exactly how we planned, exactly how we planned

[The Jokerr:]

When will, we ever learn
The moments that we'll miss will come and go
Before we notice and still the candle light will burn
When learning to let go, is so much harder than holding on Sometimes it's just easier to pretend until it's gone

I know it's a matter of time but I find I'm so impatient
Maybe I just need to take a look in the mirror to double check my motivations
Maybe if I leave it alone if was meant to be than it will come back home
And the torturous pacing of anticipation I won't remain in

Or maybe its only but a matter of time
Maybe it's just something that I'll never define
But I guess in the end it just doesn't matter at all

[Chorus:]

Falling in love, letting love go
Am I just a memory a footprint in the snow
Who knocks and knocks incessantly to open up a door
I know to be so painful that I've never wanted more
And maybe love is, something to be gained
Or a compass with the needle that directs me to the pain
That I'm willing to endure if it's making me a man
But no one said it's easy or exactly how we planned, exactly how we planned