

Branded

The Letter Black

You buried your past so don't come dig up mine
Why even bother to ask when you've already made up your mind
Go ahead label me without a second look
Just another made up fable in your storybook
Every twist and turn is a lesson you've yet to learn

I won't let you tell me who I am
You try so hard to keep me
Branded by your lies missing thorns that paralyze
Give me something better than your broken scarlett letter
Save your breath and judge yourself
Branded by your lies missing thorns that paralyze
Give me something better than your broken scarlett letter
Save your breath and judge yourself

With your cold whisper let the games begin
While the weight of your deception is breaking from within
Go ahead label me without a second look
Just another made up fable in your storybook
Every twist and turn is a lesson you've yet to learn

I won't let you tell me who I am
You try so hard to keep
Branded by your lies missing thorns that paralyze
Give me something better than your broken scarlett letter
Save you breath and judge yourself
Branded by your lies missing thorns that paralyze
Give me something better than your broken scarlett letter
Save your breath and judge yourself

Open you eyes this truth will never die
You only hate what you don't understand
You think you know me but you don't know who I am

Branded by your lies missing thorns that paralyze
Give me something better than your broken scarlett letter
Save your breath and judge yourself
Branded by your lies missing thorns that paralyze
Give me something better than your broken scarlett letter
Save your breath and judge yourself
Save your breath and judge yourself
Save your breath and judge yourself