The Letter Black

Care Too Much

I think I care Too much for you Why am I still here I trusted you You threw it back at me I fell in love I fell down on my face For years I wondered, what I saw in you I'm seeking forgiveness, from those you made me loose I'm done with you I'm standing on my own I think I care too much for you Why am I still here You told me to go away (tell me why you're still here) Still I decide to stay I think I care too much You took my life And threw it all away You broke my heart And let me bleed to death You took advantage of what I had to give I'm taking it back now, and leaving you behind Why o why?

I said why o why
