

Something has changed and you don't wanna try anymore
Nothing seems worth it, these feelings you want to ignore
So you break down and start to pray
Life has been cruel and you wonder if you'll find your way
Find your way, you'll find your way

When you've lost your mind
Feel like no one's on your side
And you're lost in this lonely world
Living like it's over now
When you lost all hope just know
When you're lost you can always be found

Never stop trying and never give up who you are
The grace and the love that you're searching for isn't that far
Then you breathe life and know you're not alone
It's worth believing, the faith will help you find your way home
Find your way, you'll find your way

When you've lost your mind
Feel like no one's on your side
And you're lost in this lonely world
Living like it's over now
When you lost all hope just know
When you're lost you can always be found

Whenever things gone all wrong
I will be here
When everything's coming down I know
Never stop trying and never give up who you are

When you've lost your mind
Feel like no one's on your side
And you're lost in this lonely world
Living like it's over now
When you lost all hope just know
When you're lost you can always be found
