You Bring Me Down

Has the raining stopped yet? I don't notice anymore Look up your face You join in the rain As you've never really done before How can this be stopped when You just opened up the door How can I go Back to my home Thinking life is such a bore Interesting It seems to me The irony of ecstacy It's coming down much harder than before Interesting When you can see That normal life's like sleep-walking Hating all the things you once adored You wake me up When you're around It's just my luck Can't do without And when you're gone Watch as I drown You bring me down You bring me down... Back and forth I'm walking I'm in heaven and in hell Life is asleep Between the sheets The person is I can't believe Back and forth you're walking You're my heaven and my hell Keep me awake Don't wanna sleep Just until the next farewell Interesting It seems to me The irony of ecstacy It's coming down much harder than before Interesting When you can see That normal life's like sleep-walking Not another day Not another day Can't take much more You wake me up When you're around It's just my luck Can't do without And when you're gone
