

Right Girl

The Maine

Got caught running up the tab, couldn't drive home so I had to share a cab
Introduce herself by her last name, the kind of girl you steal from the foot ball team

Brought up the silverspoon mess, always trying to tear off her catholic dresses

Told me she's over this place, needs to feel the midwest wind in her face
But the alcohol made it's way down

She was the last thing that I saw last night before I hit the ground

Oh god I did the wrong thing to a right girl

My mind was only in it for a minute

Had a bad fling with a good girl

I was stupid, and dumb, not giving a (HEY!)

The blank stare, out the window

If I could just sober up I could just admit

I did the wrong thing, to the right girl

It was your world baby and I just lived in it

It was your world baby and I just lived in it

I've never been the best with my mouth

Trying to stay smart but the dumb comes out

Maybe I'm shy, drive an old car

Maybe I'm amazed that I got this far

And I got my stand-bys waiting on the line

But the hardest part is knowing that it won't be her this time

Oh god I did the wrong thing to the right girl

My mind was only in it for a minute

Had a bad fling with a good girl

I was stupid, and dumb, not giving a (HEY!)

The blank stare, out the window

If I could just sober up I could just admit

I did the wrong thing, to the right girl

It was your world baby and I just lived in it

It was your world baby and I just lived in it

Please, please, baby come back

Please, please, baby come back

Please, please, baby come back

Please, please, baby come back

She came back, thought she had it all planned out

Went to marry some guy she had talked about

A tear in her dress and a tear in her eye

Just like that her whole life flashed by

She won't remember what you said last night

That if you ever needed someone to pick up the pieces in your life

Oh god I did the wrong thing to the right girl

My mind was only in it for a minute

Had a bad fling with a good girl

I was stupid, and dumb, not giving a (HEY!)

The blank stare, out the window

If I could just sober up I could just admit

I did the wrong thing, to the right girl

It was your world baby and I just lived in it

It was your world baby and I just lived in it

Please, please, baby come back
Please, please, baby come back
Please, please, baby come back
Please, please, baby come back
