

When Darkness Falls

The Mekons

why must you talk so loudly when i am on your mind? my caution's lost to vengeance as you snore now i'll cut out your tongue 'cos you have said enough watch the blood drip down the wall as darkness falls it took seven days to catch that man who's stolen from me twice seven hours of questioning and calls now i'll cut off your hands 'cos they have gone too far watch that ring roll down the hall as darkness falls see the (little) children outside playing hear their voices sing flowers in my hair and pockets swinging on that swing will you take a taxi?
will i make you walk?
we make big decisions every day i'll chop off your head your thoughts have all turned bad make you bend and make you crawl as darkness falls i'll pluck out your eyes 'cos you have seen too much you know you should be ready when (as) darkness falls
