

Won't you meet me in the garden?
Some call it eden, (We're) sharing roles
You were tempted by the serpent man
While I was busy on a cell phone closing the deal

Call out my name, I've seem to forget it
I lost my name tag, sinner seminar
You were tempted by the serpent man
While I was busy on a cell phone closing the deal

Call out my name, I'm wasting away
Over a flicker of time
Broke and busted fool, now I know what it feels like

The gods are pickin' steel on the radio
Next to the preachers trying to teach us of the fires below
I'm not going back to extremes
So we'll drag this asphalt river for the body of a story untold

Hey little girl, won't you marry me?
I'm feeling so alone. I know why
Hey little girl, won't you stay away?
I might lose my best friend, I'm losing my best friend,
I lost my best friend to your cause

Now I hear that lonesome song
Now I feel my legs touch the ground
