

I Could Kill You

The Meteors

Don't need no sleep no more this place around banging my head on the wall just to hear the sound gotta hold my self together falling apart
we just to be forever now you broke my heart

And I could kill you for what you've done to me

The walls are closing in its even darker then before only thing I can hear is when you slam the door just how your pretty face dumped me to the bone no rather reason you left me all alone

And I could kill you for what you've done to me
Then I remember everything we've done
Despite my self I still love you, your the one

We fucked up right now I gotta keep control Don't keep diggin deeper, deeper down the hole
My heart is fighting with the voices in my head
I gotta let you go or we'll both be dead

And I could kill you for what you've done to me
And I could kill you for what you've done to me

Then I remember everything we've done
Despite my self I still love you, your the one
Then I think how you made me smile
But I remember that you've ain't come back for a while

Then I remember everything we've done
Despite my self I still love you, your the one