

They Will Need Music

The Mighty Mighty Bosstones

The weight of the world at least
That weight would only be increased
Beyond what mortal men would dare to bear
Even though the weight was great
They stormed the beach and then they crashed the gate
And after there was music in the air

They will need music to uplift
It'll be a godsend it'll be a gift
And hope and glory to coincide
They'll need the strength and warmth and comfort
That the music will provide

Giving everything they had and then
Sometimes you'd have to give again
Other times there's nothing so to speak
They rose to the occasion it was cause for a celebration
And the celebration lasted for a week

They will need music to uplift
It'll be a godsend it'll be a gift
And hope and glory to coincide
They'll need the strength and warmth and comfort
That the music will provide

They will need music to uplift
It'll be a godsend it'll be a gift
And hope and glory to coincide (coincide)
They'll need the strength and warmth and comfort
That the music will provide

We will need music to uplift (To uplift)
It'll be a godsend it'll be a gift (It'll be a gift)
And hope and glory to coincide (coincide)
They'll need the strength and warmth and comfort
That the music will provide