

Footsteps

The Motels

In search of the time when laughter was music
Even the tears were sweet company
I search of the years of life we had together
Now all I hear is footsteps as you leave me

Footsteps, as you walk out the door
I hear footsteps as you walk down the hall
I hear footsteps and it hurts me so bad
I hear footsteps as I watch you go

In search of the shelter from solitude
In search of that someone I can talk to (talk to)
I search my mind for a reason
Still all I hear is footsteps as you leave me

Footsteps, as you walk out the door
I hear footsteps as you walk down the hall
I hear footsteps and it hurts me so bad
I hear footsteps as I watch you go

I lie awake, waiting and wanting
Praying I hear your footsteps call me
Up the stairs down the hall to my door
Back in my arms were I can love you once more

I hear footsteps as you walk out the door
I hear footsteps as I watch you go

I hear footsteps, as you walk out the door
I hear footsteps as you walk down the hall
I hear footsteps and it hurts me so bad
I hear footsteps as I watch you go [fade]
