Short Song About the 10 Freeway

The Mountain Goats

Evening came on like a big red wing And the dying sun, split his colors on everything, And as the night came on, you burst into song And you scraped your car up against the guardrail And god is present in the sweeping gesture But the devil is in the details