

I've Been Thinking

The Narrative

Don't be alarmed at that the things that I've said, they're only the truth, love.

I know that your anxious to lay this to bed, you always the scared one.

The air has been rushing hard up against the walls and the windows.

I'll welcome the cool breeze to let itself in and con you to keep close.

It's not the same when your eyes are sinking,

don't be afraid of what I've been thinking.

I know it seems that we're moving to fast,

but don't be afraid of what I've been thinking.

There's so many people here in-between, their constantly moving.

And sneaking around them, tears at the seams of what we've been doing.

There's too many questions, try to let go, there's no harm in hurting.

The crowd that surrounds you, and darling I know, it's what they're deserving.

It's not the same when your eyes are sinking,

don't be afraid of what I've been thinking.

I know it seems that we're moving to fast,

but don't be afraid of what I've been thinking.

Baby you've got faith in a smile

I think others would kill for

Baby you've got faith in a smile

I think others would kill for

It's not the same when your eyes are sinking,

don't be afraid of what I've been thinking.

I know it seems that we're moving to fast,

but don't be afraid of what I've been thinking.

Don't be afraid of what I've been thinking.

Don't be afraid of what I've been thinking.
