It's A New Day

The Nitty Gritty Dirt Band

Sleep deprived, an' fallin' apart. Starin' down your demons out there in the dark. At the end of the tunnel, you can see a light: Well, if that ain't a train, you made it through the night.

An' it's a new day in the mornin': Anythin' is possible, it's all good. For brief shinin' moment, Everythin' is wonderful, Knock on wood. Knock on wood.

Well, you get knocked down an' you get back up. You get knocked down again; well, it's just your luck, hah. It's just one of those years, that you gotta get through. An' then you wake up an' find, it made a man outta you.

It's a new day in the mornin': Anythin' is possible an' it's all good. For brief shinin' moment, Everythin' is wonderful, Knock on wood. Knock on wood.

It's a little humblin' down on your knees. Ah, but if you say: "Please."

An' it's a new day in the mornin': An' anythin' is possible an' it's all good. (It's all good.) For brief shinin' moment, Everythin' is wonderful, Knock on wood. Knock on wood.
