

Sweet Beyond

The Nixons

In the end, I lay the flowers
I lay the flowers down

I have bent my rules
That I have laid before me
Fallin' deeper still
Than I ever thought I would and I would again

As we begin this journey
Put your soul with mine
Connected from this moment
Throughout life and death and time

I would show you the deepness
If there was a sea forever
I would bring you the planets
If there was a way

In the end
If your life I have fail to save
I'll lay the flowers on your grave

As the years surround us
This will stay beautiful
Through the change of appearance
Love remains

I would show you the vastness
If there was a sky never-ending
I would give you the sunlight
If there was a way

In the end
(I will be here)
If your life I have fail to save
I'll lay the flowers on you grave

I'll lay the flowers
I'll lay the flowers
Flowers, flowers

I have felt what I never conceived
From here through sweeter beyond
Impossible for words to bring you understanding
I will be the one you'll see

In the end
(I will be here)
If your life I have fail to save

In the end
(I will be here)
If before me you should leave this place
I'll lay the flowers on your grave
