Look Away

The Ozark Mountain Daredevils

Babe, you could be a standing in my kitchen Or floating on your back in a deep blue sea A wiser is the man who seeks new visions And tries to keep his heart and mind toll-free

Look away, oh, Lord, look away, yeah Look away, oh, Lord, look away

A running along, peeking down hole and alley Just tryin' to find the Gospel, don't you know I hear the sound of a cryin' down in the valley But what is there is only sticks and stones

A checking it out in town I'm feeling lonely You know that some of them women sure look good A checking it up and down, now you should have told me There ain't no pretty things in my neighborhood

Look away Look away Look away Look away
