

We Left Our Souls In New Jersey

The Paramedic

Bitch! I am the legend, the truth untold. Thrown away without hesitation. We are the soldiers, with words so bold. Fighting our way through the devastation, hopefully wishing that this will never be the end. But, we were left with the choices that we could never comprehend. By Judas, the coward, the schemer, the fake. Who knew that I would be the one, you forsake? Burning bridges down to ashes, but I'm not the one holding matches. We lived and we died, only to be reborn. I promise, Hell hath no fury like a brother scorned. I never knew that you would run away. I know that this is what you feared. And in time you'll soon find, to your dismay, that I'm still standing here. I know, I'm what you fear. I'm the nightmare that you won't wake up from. Taunting the reaper, you marked me for death, but I'm going nowhere. So don't hold your breath. You've started a war that cannot be won. You'll soon see your actions can't be undone. I never knew that you would run away I know that at this is what you feared. And in time, you'll soon find, to your dismay, that I'm still standing here. I refuse to die. I will never fucking die.