

Come Clean (live)

The Partisans

I'd better leave now It's gone too far I've hurt too deep And I'm sure the wound will scar And in the morning All is not clear
I try to see through hazy eyes All the thoughts I fear
What did I do? What did I say? I should have left you far away
The reason reason cannot be found
It hurts to think about times when I've been down When I can think again And I can see The foolishness I hide in vain
Has not come clean The seams have torn once more I can't hold back I make a good excuse To grip the feelings that I lack If you could see yourself right now
What would you say? And you want to preach a sermon
Every day, You drink another drink see how you lie
It gives you courage and make you cry The world I see reflects on me through my eyes my demise
