

The One You Left To Die

The Pineapple Thief

you woke to find your memories scattered all along the blood soaked floor something happened while you slept, you raised the demons and you wept as you lost control, they lost control of you you woke to find it desolate, you woke to find it desolate so you searched for your entire life, you pray to see, you pray to see

the one you loved returning, the one you left to die you'll never stop you're searching for the one you know has died

so you searched for your entire life, you pray to see, you pray to see

the one you loved returning, the one you left to die
you'll never stop you're searching for the one you know has died

you'll never stop you're searching for the one you know has died is the one you loved returning? The one you left to die