I Need You All the Time

The Platters

I need you to keep me straight When the world don't seem so great And it's hard enough you know

I need you to be around When my conscience brings me down And the world feels so obscure

I want you to be the one Who tells me off when I do wrong And you know I can be bad

I need you, I need you Say you'll stay, make my day

Now what have I done?
Was it something I said? Oh dear

I need you to turn me off
When you think I've said enough
To the extent of being a bore

I need you to tell me no - Slap my wrists and send me home Tell me I can't come again

Now why are you crying? Have I gone too far - again?
