

Our world is caving in, we are questioning, we are fighting with regret
Our colors fading out just blending in with the sick and desolate
And I've been stumbling around beat down forming concrete in my throat
In a world so lost I can't believe we are giving in so fast
Don't become amune to the sickness that eats us all alive
I hope you're scared
You'll feel his wrath on judgement day
Cracked teeth smashed bones and we're walking strong
Turned away from their ears cuz our theory's wrong
This is the day I hope I never see, voices mute and no ones listening
This is the end