

Wings of Destiny

The Poodles

I got something on my mind As I'm heading out tonight There are so many different Lives in the city

A man lies shaking in the street With nothing on his feet A girl looks the other way, without pity Same sidewalk, still worlds apart

In the name of love A thousand years of ageless history Past yo ur eyes, will it ever change? And forever more Now we are here to live the mystery And we sail on the wings of destiny

Somewhere another child is born Into a broken home Oh, this lif e can be so cold When you're lonely Without a soft and warm embrace And a loving smiling face It's hard to carry on If we could only remember Do you still care?

In the name of love A thousand years of ageless history Past yo ur eyes, nothing will change And forever more Now we are her to live the mystery And we sail on the wings of destiny

Now we need love more than ever But compassion is so hard to fi nd I wish we all could reach for unity

In the name of love In the name of humanity Brothers, sisters d on't you know It's where we ought to be

In the name of love A thousand years of ageless history Past yo ur eyes, now it seems to change And forever more Now we are her e to live the mystery And we sail on the wings of destiny