Without You

This song is by The Poodles and appears on the album Sweet Trade (2007).

I see the black birds they fly
Rising like spirits tonight
Life is turning back again
I've been sleeping since i don't know when Outside there's a world shining bright

I know that time an endless time
Is the key to heal my heart and save me
All I've known before is still waiting if i can

Live without you without you
Now I must learn to face the
World without you without you
It breaks my heart but I will try I will try

I thought I saw you tonight
In the crowded streets you caught my eye
I'm so convinced of my defeat
When I turn around it's someone else that I meet
Beauty just secretly hides

And now I watch you sail away
While I dwell inside my cave
And all I've known and all I've seen
Is still waiting if only I can

Live without you without you
Now I must learn to face the
World without you without you
It breaks my heart but I will try

Live without you without you
Now I must learn to face the
World without you without you
It breaks my heart but I will try
