

In The Square

In the square, she came running,
I was lucky to be there.

In her hair, she wore flowers,
The scent it filled the air.

She must leave, not returning,
I was sadness standing there,
A silent square, bus of silver,
With my vision disappears.

The Pretty Things