Runs In The Family

The Pursuit Of Happiness

Paula's sister has legs as long as hers Maybe a little bit longer They're tan and shiny and newly grown And they fit so easily on her Paula's sister's eyes sparkle and flair With the promise of her youth Paula's eyes are beautiful but dark Because they know the truth I guess that beauty runs in the family I guess that beauty runs in the family It's as easy as DNA Paula's sister has no lines on her face Nobody's hurt her yet Paula's smile is still devastating But I see it less and less She looks a lot like Paula did When we first met Before I wore her spirit down And filled her with regret [chorus] I'm talking to her like an older brother She's talking to me with her shoes off She looks at me with innocence I look away [chorus]
