I Can Remember

The Raspberries

I can remember Summer skies and your eyes And in September, when I first realized That I needed you to be The other half of me And my love long locked inside itself Had finally been set free I can remember Autumm skies and goodbyes Hurting so badly that I thought I would die But the more things seem to change The more they stay the same And the lonely ones get lonelier With every passing day From the day we met I knew that I should Never let you Get a hold on me 'cause noe you see I Can't forget you Oh I, I can remember midsummer skies Love in your eyes In the Spring, the sun will shine and make the Ice surrender But it will not warm my heart as long as I remember And I, I will remember midsummer skies Love in your eyes And I, I will remember the times I've cried Since you say goodbye I nearly died when you said, "I, I can't let you down anymore So I guess this goodbye" What, what did you do it for? Everytime I think of you and him together I break down and cry Oh I, I can remember the tears I've cried Since you say goodbye I can remember OH I, I can remember midsummer skies Love in your eyes And I, I can remember the times I've cried Since you said goodbye