

Knives And Wolves

The Red Shore

stepping through the darkness into the cold abyss I can almost hear your thoughts and I hold in my hands what once was lost but now is found broken hearts and burning tears this emptiness that swallows whole everything I cherished was destroyed by you your wretched hand like ice and cruelty internal, infection you placed a curse upon my heart denial, depression like knives and wolves we dance as one tonight our cries will go unanswered for all our sins we die alone the casket opens she awakes from her sleep the taste of blood
still on her lips
one thousand years of torment about to end her will is final, my dreams are laid to rest the stench of fire beneath a rotting sky her eyes betray me emotion swept away
I watched you die (2x)
they watched you die (2x)
I watched you die, by my hands.