

Divide and Rule

The Restarts

Theres one law through history that ain't such a mystery
Those bastards have learn where old empires failed
Keep the poor down in the mud let them shed each others blood

Divide and rule

Attack the minorities confuse the priorities
Force feed our dogma watch us breed our own hate
While we argue whose to blame we fall victim to their power game

We're all in the same boat yet at each others throats
We've got to smash down these fucking walls that we've built
Our traditional division their force fed oppression