

Thin Ice

The Restarts

Again today the papers say another teenage kid got knifed,
It seems to happen every day now, it didn't even catch my eye.
Though they didn't have a reason, it didn't make 'em think twice,
They say they got nothing to live for, so took someone else's life.

You're walking on thin ice -
You crossed the final line
And now there's no way back

Peer pressurised attitudes, bling glamourised TV tales,
Before they even reach adulthood they'll either end up dead or jailed.
How could you ever victimise them, you keep looking elsewhere for blame,
Cos whatever drove 'em this far, it's them who crossed the final line.