

A Love To Die For

The Rifles

How she's been looking for the boy who wears the crown in every public house and every corner of the town
You know she should forget the boy who make a start the memories in her head replay the part where she departs

And now she stands alone
in a hundred mile line
you know just how she'd love to have her love to die

And all her friends can see she'll always play it down she says she'll get her peace of mind if she sees that boy around And time and time she'll tell her self the boy's no good But truly knows the truth, she'd love to hold him if she could

And now she stands alone
in a hundred mile line
you know just how she'd love to have
her love to die

And then one day she'll get the news that he's been seeing somebody new Right now she feels like she could die Oh but it's really not the end in just a moment in her life

How quickly love can catch you up or pass you by (Pass you by)
He says that all the time and space to think has changed his mind Dearest apologies for every time she cried (time she's cried)
She tells him there's no longer tears just water in her eyes

And for everyone alone how the story will define
'Cause now she's no love left to love her love has died
