

Every If And Every Why

The Rocket Summer

Son, I was wrong they were right
And now every if and every why
Lay my head on the line every if and every why
And it hurts and it brings me all the dreams that I had to find
But I know hope's a lonely road

I've been trying all my life
Alone and fighting all my life
Silver lining all my life generally I can kinda see
But I just cant now because

Son, son, I was wrong they were right
And now every if and every why
Lay my head on the line every if and every why
And it hurts and it brings me all the dreams that I had to find
But I know that I must keep on hoping

Meaning to tell you all my life
That I sin without you all my life
And this happens to me all my life
I don't see it and full of fact
Until I open up my eyes and got nothing good at

Son, I was wrong they were right
And now every if and every why
Lay my head on the line every if and every why
And it hurts and it brings me all the dreams that I had to find
But I know that I must keep on hoping

Can't look back you can only decide where you are
And maybe I can look but it cuts cute too deep into the heaaaaaa-aaa-rt

And Son, I was wrong they were right
And now every if and every why
Lay my head on the line every if and every why
And it hurts and it brings me all the dreams that I had to find
But I know that I must keep on

So keep on keep on hoping hoping hoping hoping
