

The Stars In January

The Saddest Landscape

and how did we get this far approaching the point that our heroes turned back upon just remember that we wanted this remember that we always wanted this watching everything around us burn down we will start again it is in the stars we will start again the softness of your breath and the smile on your lips i've never felt this vulnerable testing the limits of missing and why can't this be beautiful.