

Church of Indifference

The Saints

I look at the world from my window
There's nothing I'd rather see
Millions of people walk by me
Not just the ones I've ignored
Put my hands on my knees
Say goodbye to old friends I don't need
The sheep look out to the sea
My search for life lost it's attraction
There's nothing left to explore
Only time could give an answer
But the clock it won't say a word
You don't need me
But you want my flesh
Since you tasted blood
I don't do no wrong and I can't tell right
But now I'm so sick of this success
And God looking down on me
And everything looks oh so pretty
As long as it's not too free
You can do what you want
Hope it don't offend me if you care
So press a young and then a smile supress it all
Take a square if it's there
Walk around the world
You could join
The church of indifference
It don't give no love
The church of indifference
Like the good god above
The man who has everything might say
That something's a terrible fate
Religion and other dependance
We can't afford them if they Maybe one day things will change for better or for worse
So don't you give thanks for a speech
Take a square if it's there
Walk around the world
You could join the church of indifference, baby
The church of indifference, baby
The church of indifference, baby
The church of indifference, baby
The church of indifference, baby
The church of indifference
It don't give no love
The church of indifference
Is like the good god above
Outside a phonebooth you tell me
That everything's much too late
But did you believe when I told you
I'd settle for second rate?
The time has come to give up my hopes and foolish pride
'Cause we've all been taken for a ride.
Take a square if it's there
Walk around the world
You could join
You could join the church of indifference, baby

The church of indifference, baby
The church of indifference, baby
The church of indifference, baby
The church of indifference, baby
The church of indifference, baby
The church of indifference, baby
