

Let's Pretend

The Saints

We all take a drink from the cup then she politely knocks it over I said I think that I've had enough & she says no no this is not over because there is no innocence or beauty in what I have seen in your face so let's pretend
I got up to take a walk across the floor but my feet they would not hold me she said you should never have come into this bar & I say no I should never have come in but I had been sold down the river to somebody sold me it could have been you So every day time slips away there is nothing to contain it These eyes of mine don't see the sense of trying to control it because every time you stand up you're bound to fall & sometimes we just pretend Have you ever seen a blind man as he stumbles & falls Me I am just like the blind man my hands are tied & I can't see anymore So I take a drink from the cup then she politely knocks it over
I said I think that I've had enough
& she says no no this is not over
because there is no innocence or beauty in
what I have seen in your face
so let's pretend
