Vaguely Jesus

The Saints

When daily life begins to crack & the glue you chose proves to be unsuccessful

When the overtures leave you bored and eulogising the vaguely in consequential then somwthing slaps you in the face like a fish disguised as the master race & she comes like never before & you're lying on the floor feeling vaguely jesus

When the things you do go at half the speed before you're done you're back at the beginning & so confused by the fall from grace every step you take feels largely coincidental then sirens in the afternoon explode into the living room & she comes like never before & you're lying on the floor feeling vaguely jesus