Foreign Countries

She paints pictures of the sky She hides feelings in her eyes She dances behind shadows You'll be there when she needs you When she smiles at you She smiles at me When she smiles at you She smiles at me Foreign countries on a wall Left over from a dream All places I've never been All places I've never seen When she smiles at you She smiles at me When she smiles at you She smiles at me There's little left to understand She waves goodbye with her Two good hands From feelsings that won't go away You'll need them all again one day When she smiles at you She smiles at me When she smiles at you She smiles at me ...
